

AN IMPORTANT MISSION.

Colonel George W. Macfarlane arrived here on the steamer Australia, charged with an important mission by the Hawaiian Government. Though the envoy refuses to give any information regarding the matter, it has been reported by some of his fellow-passengers that the Hawaiian Legislature, now in session, passed a loan act about half an hour before the departure of the Australia, and Colonel Macfarlane was hurriedly dispatched to treat with Mr. H. R. Armstrong, representing a syndicate of English capitalists, in regard to placing Hawaiian bonds to the extent of $2,000,000 on the London market, to bear interest at 6 per cent. redeemable in twenty years. The syndicate is composed of Baring Brothers and Sir Alexander Mathewson, one of the wealthiest baronets in England, whose nephew Mr. Armstrong is. The latter gentleman has been some time in the Sandwich Islands. This syndicate will be joined by Claus Spreckels, who already holds $500,000 worth of Hawaiian Government bonds. It is understood that this money, secured by the consolidated revenue of the country, is to be used for internal improvements and productive works and for the payment of all outstanding Government bonds bearing 7 and 9 percent interest. The conditions of the loan will be the same as the last Chinese loan of $7,000,000, floated on the London market. The full text of the private dispatches which Colonel Macfarlane bears from King Kalakaua to Mr. Armstrong will not be made public until the Colonel returns to Honolulu.

—S. F. Call, Sept. 15.

A cable dispatch from London has the following: Truth says: "It would seem that the Prince of Wales' sons have been guilty of a very flagrant piece of plagiarism. No passage in 'The Cruise of the Bacchante' has been so admirably quoted as one written while between Barbados and Martinique, which begins, 'We should be less than men,' and ending, 'But sad memories of their useless valor,' etc. It turns out to have been copied almost word for word from Charles Kingsley's 'At Last,' where it will be found in the second chapter."

Not a Walking Dictionary.

Mrs. Brown—Don't you like Miss Smith, Mr. Jones?
Jones—No, I do not.
Mrs. Brown—Why, isn't she pretty?
Jones—Yes, she is pretty enough, but she is too taciturn. I don't like a lady too taciturn.
Mrs. Brown (after a little reflection)—Perhaps you are right. A blonde would suit you better than those taciturn-complected girls.—Texas Sifting.

An American who, like Truthful James, would disclaim being up to small deceit, avers that our omnibus drivers quite give up the idea of getting home or anywhere else when an October fog of the first quality sets in. They simply draw up in the street and wait patiently till the clouds roll by.

INVITED TO SUBSCRIBE.
Business men are solicited to test the advantages of THE DAILY HERALD as an ADVERTISING MEDIUM.
A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.
The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.
The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.
The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.
Try the "Daily Herald" for a month at least.
